CHEMOTHERAPY TODAY: NEW DRUGS, NEW APPROACHES, AND NEW STRATEGIES. A GUIDE FOR CANCER PATIENTS AND THOSE WHO CARE ABOUT THEM

Mary-Ellen Siegel, M.S.W., A.C.S.W., Clinical Instructor, Department of Community and Preventive Medicine, Mount Sinai School of Medicine, Social Work Consultant, The Chemotherapy Foundation, in collaboration with Franco M. Muggia, M.D., Professor of Medicine, Director, Division of Medical Oncology, New York University School of Medicine, Chairman and Medical Director, The Chemotherapy Foundation.

An easy-to-read booklet for cancer patients that discusses all aspects of the chemotherapy experience, finding the right doctor, types of treatment, new therapies, common side effects and practical advice on how to deal with them, continuing daily life activities, and psychological and social issues.

PROSTATE CANCER: A CHRONIC DISEASE WITH MULTIPLE TREATMENT OPTIONS

Anna Ferrari, M.D., Associate Professor, Co-Director Genitourinary Cancer Program, NYU Cancer Institute, New York University School of Medicine

Dispelling the confusion between unproved theory and current knowledge about diagnosis and treatment of prostate cancer, this handbook covers epidemiology, prevention, screening, surgery, hormonal therapy, and clarifies treatment options.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN AND HER DOCTOR SHOULD DISCUSS ABOUT OVARIAN CANCER (Fourth Edition)

Ezra M. Greenspan, M.D., Founder, The Chemotherapy Foundation; Franco M. Muggia, M.D., Chairman and Medical Director, The Chemotherapy Foundation, Director, Division of Medical Oncology, New York University School of Medicine.

Ovarian cancer is the fifth cause of death among American women. This booklet explains the urgency of early detection, genetic and life-style risk factors and describes the major advances in diagnosis and treatment.
